Development League Notes.

(Portland Correspondent.)

The following notice has just been received from Mr. A. P. Bateham, president of the Oregon State Horticultural Society: "Representatives of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry and fruit growers of the northwest will hold a series of meetings to discuss in a general way the subject of apple storage and refrigeration and to report something of the Government's progress in investigations as to the behavior of fruit in cold storage. This is a timely topic and one that will interest the live fruit growers who appreciate the value of the work that is being done to develop the subject. The meeting places and dates are scheduled as follows: Medford, Aug. 2; North Yakima, Aug. 4; Prosser, Aug. 5; Wenatchee, Aug. 7; Freewater, Aug. 9; Payette, Aug. 11; Hood River, Aug. 12 or 13, Portland, Aug. 14.

From Weston, Oregon, comes news of the first returns of the 1913 harvest season. From a field measuring 38 acres, J. N. York, a farmer at that point, harvested 1103 sacks of extra fine wheat, indicating an average yield of a fraction over 77 bushels per acre.

At the present time a farmer in the Molalla District, about 20 miles from Oregon City, is harvesting a crop probably not grown by any other rancher in the Willamette Valley.—teasels. His present crop consists of about 70 acres and during the harvest season he will employ about 40 hands at $2.50 to $3.00 per day. The teasel is a bur for which the manufacturers of cloth find a use in raising the nap of the goods, a process for which no inventor has ever been able to invent a mechanical substitute.

As a result of the recent visit of Chief Forester Graves to the Siuslaw Forest Reserve, the agricultural lands included in that tract will be opened to entry by homesteaders. A large part of the land best suited to agriculture and dairying has already been surveyed and segregated and the balance will receive attention as soon as possible after applications by prospective settlers have been received.

Drink Boiled Water and Avoid Typhoid Fever

(Communicated)

During the warm season it is very advisable to drink boiled water whether at home or abroad, whether in a hotel or at a summer resort or in a strange city. This is a very good antidote against typhoid fever. Many typhoid cases which are recorded in the fall in cities or localities enjoying good drinking water, may be traced back to water taken when abroad. The water was not free from dangerous ingredients causing typhoid. In case you cannot get boiled water, make sure about the good reputation of springs, wells or tap water. Do not take any water that comes from a source near an outhouse or horse, cow or sheep stable, or in a neighborhood where typhoid is at all prevalent.

But boiled water is not as palatable as unboiled water. However you can make it palatable. Water soon after having been boiled, has a flat taste, because the boiling drives out of it the air which it kept in solution. Boiled water will regain its air and have its usual taste restored by the second day. Put the water after boiling in scalded shallow open pans and give twenty four hours allowance to stand where flies and dirt cannot get at it. You will have wholesome drinking water.

Precipitation for June and July Past Ten Years

It is the June and July moisture that counts most in making and maturing our crops. While the total precipitation for the past two years has been below the average, the rainfall for June and July has been above normal as will be seen from the appended table taken from the record of U. S. Weather Bureau Service, and this has been favorable for growing crops of both hay and grain.
